2019 HERRENBERG Riesling GG

VDP.GROSSE LAGE

The vineyard:

The “Herrenberg”, where this wine has been growing, is one of the most famous vineyards in the Pfalz region. In 1828 it was classified by the Royal-Bavarian Land Taxation laws as a first class vineyard. Seen from the climatic point of view, its special position can be explained by the south orientation of the vineyard which guarantees an optimum exposure to the sun. From the west it is protected by a big forest (Pfälzer Wald), avoiding damage from thunder- and hailstorms.

The climate & soil:

The Pfalz region is one of the warmest and sunniest regions in Germany. The annual rainfall is just enough to grow premium white and red wines. The mild climate produces powerful, but elegant wines with a good acidity structure. The soil is dominated by a high content of limestone which adds a very mineral character to the wine.

The wine:

The 2019 HERRENBERG shows flavours of apricots and peaches. On the palate the wine has a wonderful complexity, shows great minerality and is obviously influenced by the long lie-contact. The fresh acidity and the powerful, but elegant body are another proof of a wine of big potential (drinkability up to at least 2032, best drinking after 2023).
